once upon a time something incredible happened at oaks elementary school. The principal decided that all students in the fourth grade class allowed were to bring an animal to school with them for Pet Day. The morning of Pet Day, fourth grade classroom was buzzing with excitement as everyone walked in with their furry, scaly and feathery friends. Within five minutes, the room turned into a Pet Store! Doggs wagged their tails, cats purred and birds chirped happily. there were even small creatures like hamsters, turtles and a tarantula peeking out of their cages. It it was hard for the teacher to settle the class down because everyone was talking sharing stories about their pets. The sounds of barks, meows and chirps filled the air... And the animals wouldn't quiet down when the teacher said it was time to listen! With so many pets around, the class found it was too hard to focus on lessons. The Pets were too cute and kept doing funny things. So instead of teaching the normal lesson, the teacher decided to try something new. She turned the pets into learning opportunities. Students observed their behaviors and learned about different species. It was like having a real-life zoo right there in the classroom. Even though it was a bit hard to concentrate, the day was full of laughter. From that day on, the story of the pets in the Classroom became legendary. People still talk about the day the classroom was filled with as many animals as kids.
